

Autumn Term

Optional Home learning activities that you might want to try at home:

These are not compulsory tasks, but are available to dip into if your child is interested in extending their learning, linked to what we have been covering in class.

Design a Roman Villa

You could make your villa in any way you choose.? Could it be a drawing? A model? Or something else? You might want to think about which rooms a Roman villa might have. How would they have been different from rooms today? How might the rooms have been furnished? Should your villa contain mosaics and Roman pots?

Make a poster to promote good dental care.

What key information could you include about teeth? What tips could you suggest for looking after your teeth and gums? Will you include diagrams and fact boxes?

Make a comic strip of your favourite Bible story

You could include speech and thought bubbles and simple pictures. Are there any messages in your bible story comic strip which link to our school vision and values?

Write a poem about volcanoes.

You might want to write an acrostic poem, a haiku, or a poem with several stanzas.

Remember that poems don't have to rhyme!

Gather pictures and make a collage about the Romans in Britain

You could include Roman Gods and Goddesses, Emperors, or famous Roman buildings. You might want to think about how the ancient romans have influenced life in Britain today.

Make a Maths poster about the four operations of number (addition, subtraction, multiplication and division).

You could include different ways of saying these words, include examples and even include a word problem for the reader to solve.
